Second Front In Europe Imminent

PRESSURE FOR NEW ACTION BY ALLIES INCREASES IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(UP)— Pressure for a vigorously active Anglo-American fighting front against German in Europe appeared today to be increasing enormously under impact of bad news from practically all war theaters.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill, whose visit here has been marred by the fall of Tobruk and Axis penetration of Egypt, is believed to be as eager as any man for the drive to begin. He is under hot fire at home and must answer to Commons when he returns to London.

President Roosevelt and Churchill may have agreed on a shock for the Axis and a pleasant surprise for the peoples of the United Nations in their conferences. There is no hint of what they have agreed upon, but yesterday's Pacific war council sent conferees away smiling.

Dr. Eelco Van Kleffens, the slight man who is foreign minister of the Netherlands' government-in-exile, arrived by clipper only in time to attend the council. He was almost extended after the White House meeting.

"While I cannot go into details," he explained, "I want to emphasize one point—when I say encouraging, it is not just a matter of routine but I have very definite reasons for saying so."

AXIS FORCES PUSH TOWARD NILE VALLEY

ROMMEL'S INVADING ARMY HAS PENETRATED 100 MILES INTO EGYPT

BLITZ TACTICS ARE USED

German Mobilized Units Pushing Forward While Main Column Follows Vital Rail Line

WITH THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY AT MARSA MATRUH, June 26 (UP)—Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's invading Axis army has reached points southwest and west of Marsa Matruh, striking more than 100 miles into Egypt in a drive toward the rich Nile valley.

American-made Douglas Boston light bombers and Curtiss Kittyhawk fighters of the Royal Air Force joined the mobile armed forces of Gen. Neil M. Ritchie's army in a grim fight to hold back the pressing enemy hordes until the new defense line based on Marsa Matruh, 140 miles inside Egypt, could be made ready.

It appeared that the opening of the battle of Marsa Matruh might start at any hour.

The main column of the German invading force was driving in arrowhead formation along the railroad from Sidi Barrani, 80 miles west of Marsa Matruh.

This force has reached a point southwest of Marsa Matruh itself.
(It was indicated that here Rommel's men were between 100 and 120 miles inside Egypt and hardly more than 20 miles from Marsa Matruh.)

Another column, consisting mainly of armored cars and motorcycles, with some motorized infantry, was engaged by British units on the main sea coast road west of Marsa Matruh.

The main body of the enemy armored corps was pushing on at racing speed, great clouds of dust marking its progress over the baking desert. It was using the Came-lons, tracks on both sides of the railroad line.

Royal air force bombing and fighting planes, including the Douglases and Curtisses, gave a picture of a vast sprawling force, with tanks, armored cars and mobile anti-aircraft guns forming a broad spearhead which served to protect the flanks of the following units.

Pilots reported that huge supply columns, in staggered echelon formation, were following behind the main advance group, protected on both sides and in the rear by strong columns.

The supply force from the air showed an advance in a neat, box-like body.

A third Axis column, of smaller size than those southwest and west of this anchor point, was pushing southward through the desert, heading for Ras El Qattara, 75 miles south of Marsa Matruh at the edge of the great Qattara Depression and its salt marshes which form a difficult obstacle for tanks.

The salt marshes, nearly 60 miles wide at this point, are a natural defense against attack toward the lower end of the Alexandria-Cairo main highway.

Encouraging news came from the area that Indian troops had attacked the southernmost Axis column and were believed to have dispersed it, if only temporarily.

Axis planes opened their attack on Marsa Matruh Wednesday night, as the main columns moved toward the town, without pausing day or night for rest.

Royal Air force night fighter planes went into action and the sky was aflame with traced bullets and the bursts of high explosive shells from our anti-aircraft guns.

Reinforcements are moving into the line, passing other forces, which are withdrawing and reorganizing after weeks of ceaseless action.

Chinese army communique said today.

Allies Attack Japanese Bases

GEN. MACARTHUR'S COMMUN-IQUE REPORTS WIDE-SCALE
AERIAL OFFENSIVE

MELBOURNE, June 26.—(UP)— Gen. Douglas MacArthur's planes, in one of the heaviest aerial assaults ever launched in the southwest Pacific, struck the first blow today in a fight for control of these southern skies.

Operating over a 2,000 mile front, American and Australian air men raided Dili, in Timor island of the northwest invasion zone, and Rabaul in New Britain island of the northeast zone.

They spread ruin through the target areas, smashing airdromes, grounded planes, barracks and supply dumps and started fires which the plane crews saw from 60 miles away as they flew homeward.

In addition to the main raids, Allied planes successfully attacked enemy troop quarters at Salamaua, on the north coast of New Guinea, and drove off a determined force of Japanese zero fighter planes which attempted to raid Port Moresby, the Allied advanced base on the New Guinea south coast.

MacArthur announced in his communique that the Allies came through this big series of engagements without loss.

Four Allied planes were hit by zero machine gun bullets in the savage Port Moresby dog fight but none was damaged seriously, and five zeros staggered off with serious damage, probably to crash in the mountainous New Guinea interior.

No doubt was held here that the Allied raids on Dili, Rabaul and Salamaua opened a finish fight, on a scale never seen in the antipodes, for supremacy of the air.

Both sides had been organizing for it. For four days, Allied and Japanese planes had been conducting aerial reconnaissance marking the final preparation, and MacArthur then hit first and hard.

Seizing the initiative in the dark early hours of this morning, one

Credit Members Hear Bartlett

REGULATION DISCUSSED FOR BENEFIT OF MEMBERS OF ASSOCIATION

The Putnam County Credit Association members and employees held an interesting dinner meeting at the Lincoln Dining room Tuesday evening, at which a general discussion of regulation W, which deals with credit and installment buying was under discussion.

Every retail merchant has some form of credit or installment customers and under the new regulation by the government, these accounts on cost of living items, cannot run beyond the tenth of the second month after purchase. If they run longer than that time, they are frozen and further credit can not be extended.

Charles Bartlett of the Indianapolis Merchants' Association was present and answered questions concerning the plan which became effective a few weeks ago. Harley Miller, new president of the Credit Association, presided and the meeting was turned into a questions and answer forum, rather than a discussion by Mr.
Bartlett. He answered many questions which were asked and it was believed those attending received much general information that will be of assistance in complying with this new government regulation.

CLOVERDALE LAWN MADE INTO A SPOT OF BEAUTY

A pretty effect in lawn landscaping has been obtained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donus Denny at Cloverdale, where the rear part of their residence lot has been transformed from its original status as a wild, unkempt ravine, into a charming bit of scenery. The lot is some 350 feet deep, the full depth of the block between two streets.
Their home is near the east, or front part of the lot, and the entire rear half, or even more than half, is included in the landscaping.

In its rough state, the ravine was a thicket of horseweeds, man-high, in which Mr. Denny could almost have become lost if he had strayed away from the trail. A fine spring of clear, cold, and healthy water is there, with water cress growing in the rivulet running from it, and there are trees and flowers. One of the interesting points about it is that as soon as Mr. Denny cleared off the horseweeds a thick growth of grass appeared, without any seeding.

BRITISH BLAST BREMEN IN BIG NIGHT AIR RAID

MORE THAN 1,000 BOMBERS POUND GERMANY'S SEC-OND LARGEST PORT

OTHER NAZI CITIES HIT

RAF Stages Greatest Aerial Attack Since Raid on Essen Nearly Four Weeks Ago

A SOUTHERN ENGLISH PORT, June 26.—(UP)—Royal Air Force squadrons twice swept across the channel and attacked axis targets today, renewing daylight raids on northern France.

LONDON, June 26.—(UP)—A gi-gantic fleet of British bombers ap-proximating the new 1,000-plane Royal Air Force standard, blasted Bremen, Germany's second port, and other enemy cities last night.

Germany, whose first claims in the two previous total destruction raids had been below actual British losses, reported that at least 41 planes were downed, compared with 44 in the 1,000 plane raid on Cologne May 30, and 35 in the 1,036 plane raid on Essen June 1.

Canadians, Poles, Czechs and American volunteers of the Royal Air Force joined Britons in the raid in which mammoth four motored bombers, carrying up to eight tons of bombs each, patterned a target area of almost unequalled importance in all Germany.

Criss-crossing Bremen, a city of 350,000, in an intricate pattern which Air Marshal Sir A. T. Harris, commanding the bomber command, had worked out to the last detail, the planes hurled bombs up to 4,480 pounds in weight on such targets as the Deschimg and Atlas submarine works, shipyards large enough to build transatlantic luxury liners, a dive bomber factory, the giant Focke-Wulf airplane works, cotton mills and the largest high grade oil refinery in Germany.

Word spread through London at dawn that the air force had made its greatest raid since that on Essen June 1.

For hours the air ministry refused to make a statement. But in mid-morning it became apparent that the raid was another of history making proportions.

Extra editions of the afternoon papers appeared in the streets blazoning the word that a raid of something like the 1,000 plane level had been made.

Great four-motored bombers of all types and fast two-motored craft were in the raid.

They were covered by a strong force of fighters and fighter-bomber planes, probably including the crack American-made Douglas Bostons, which struck at enemy airdromes in occupied France, Belgium and The Netherlands to keep down or knock out German night fighters which might have challenged the bombardment planes.

ALLIES ATTACK JAP BASES

great fleet of Allied planes, probably including Boeing flying fortresses and great Consolidated B-24 bombers, set out for the 500 mile flights to Dili and Rabaul from their secret bases.

At Dili, on the Portuguese end of Dutch-Portuguese Timor, the Allies planes roared in at low altitude and scored direct hits with their biggest bombs on enemy occupied buildings. Great fires blazed as they smashed bomb after bomb on their targets.

In a similar night attack, Allied planes concentrated on the enemy airdrome runway, plane dispersal areas and building areas of the great Rabaul base.

They bombed at will, waiting vainly for the whine of enemy fighter plane motors, and returned with their bomb racks empty, looking back 60 miles at the fires they had started.

At Salamaua, a smaller unit woke up those Japanese it did not kill by plastering the troop barracks with bombs and machine gun bullets.

Their remaining ammunition was used on scattered supply points in the area.

It was understood that the Allies had used a number of new secret bases just built.

Apparently, from the lack of enemy fighter plane challenge, the Japanese were caught unawares, believing that the Allies were not yet ready to make their challenge.

There seemed no doubt from reports here that the Japanese had suffered greater damage than in any previous single day operation since MacArthur took over.

Reviews and Previews

Chateau

"Santa Fe Trail," the new Errol Flynn-Olivia de Havilland co-starring picture, which has its premiere local showing on Friday and Saturday at the Chateau Theatre, brings to life some of the most colorful figures of America's history. Dealing with the turbulent days of the era just preceding the Civil War, the story is said to top the thrills of "Dodge City," "Virginia City" and "The Sea Hawk."

Flynn portrays Jeb Stuart, famed cavalry commander, Ronald Reagan is cast as General George Custer, and Raymond Massey plays the fanatical John Brown—three names that ring out of history's pages.

Olivia de Havilland is seen as a feminine "Kit Carson," who captures the heart of young Jeb Stuart.

Vocastile

Double-barreled blasts of double-powered thrills are promised on Saturday only when Columbia's double-starring western, "North of the Rockies" has its local opening at the Vocastile Theatre. Bill Elliott and Tex Ritter, ace action stars of the screen, play the leading roles in the film which already has been hailed as a "two-star round-up of red-blooded thrills, tunes and adventures."

The story is an action-filled outdoor adventure yarn dealing with the combined efforts of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the hard-riding cowboys of the range in blasting the fur thieves of the border separating Canada and the United States.

OBITUARY

George E. Hazlett, born in Parke county, Feb. 16, 1867; died in Greencastle, June 14, 1942.

He was a member of one of the pioneer families of central Indiana; grandson of Samuel Hazlett, who served in the Revolutionary War; son of Joseph Hazlett and Margaret Grant Hazlett.

He married Josephine Alexander, also of Parke county in 1887, 55 years ago.

Survived by Mrs. Hazlett and five children: Mrs. Howard Tolley, of Washington, D. C., Mr. Chester Hazlett, New York City, Mrs. Ralph McLeod, Indianapolis, Mrs. Georgia O'Leary, Washington, D. C., Mr. Claude Hazlett, Pittsburg, Pa.

Kindly, quiet, and unassuming, he always thought of others before himself. His strength of character and philosophy of life are strikingly shown by a statement in his own handwriting found in his personal notebook after his death.

"For the work that you faithfully and willingly do, you shall reap a reward after a while. Only grace in your service can glorify you."

Signed: George E. Hazlett.
In his latter days he came to realize how fragile is our hold on this life, but he held firmly to his faith. In his closing days he often asked that the beautiful passage from Ecclesiastes—12 Chapt. 6-7—be read to him:

Or ever the silver cord be loosed or the golden bowl be broken,

Or the pitcher be broken at the fountain, or wheel broken at the cistern—

Then shall the dust return to earth as it was,

And the spirit shall return unto God who gave it."

It has a two-track roadway, with an arch separating the tracks, the structure being of the Burr type. This combines the timber truss and timber arch. It and the similar bridge that spanned Big Raccoon on the same road, south of Rockville, were erected by J. J. ATTENDS GIRLS' STATE ACTIVITIES Emily Ann Long, a junior next year in the Greencastle High School, daughter of Mrs. Meda Long, has returned from Indianapolis, where she participated in the activities of Girls' State, which was held at the Indiana Central College, under the sponsorship of the auxiliary of the American Legion.

Miss Long was the guest of the Greencastle auxiliary at the Girls' State, chosen for that honor by reason of her grades in school, her personality and her character. She is 15 years old and despite her youthfulness, she, by reason of her recent intensive training in governmental functioning, probably now has a broader understanding of the operation of those functions than is possessed by many men and women who have been going to the polls and voting for public officers, for years.

The 135 girls attending the gathering were divided into the Federalist and the Nationalist parties, each of whom nominated a complete set of officers for one state, two counties and six city governments, and an election was held to elect officers from the two tickets, to serve in the offices. Miss Long was vice chairman of the Federalist party and councilman of her city.

Among their very pleasant recreations was their attendance at a reception given in their honor by the governor and his lady, at the governor's mansion, north Indianapolis, and, also, the girls attended part of the program of the Republican state convention.

Miss Long is a member of the Greencastle High School band and of the dance band, connected with the same organization.

FORMER BUSINESS PLACE SOLD AT SHERIFF'S SALE

A business place in Pleasant den which through a number of years was known along the National highway as one of the thriving headquarters in that town for truckers and motor vehicle drivers, but which had been boarded up for two years, was sold at sheriff's sale at the office of the Putnam county court today in an effort to satisfy a judgment for $2,304 held by creditors.

The principal owner was Frank Senter, and, at the same time, leasehold in his name for a small place on the northeast corner of intersection of roads 43 and 36, miles north of Greencastle, was to satisfy a judgment for $3,112. McGaughey and he retains his leasehold being disposed of at the sale. The Pleasant den place was known as The Truckers Haven, or The National Filling Station.

The purchaser in both instances was Mrs. Frances Weaver of Brown who held a mortgage on the Pleasant den property and also had a leasehold on the property north of Greencastle. Mrs. Weaver representative at the sale made only bids offered. The Pleasant den property with its improvements was sold to her for $1,500, and leasehold of the other property disposed of to her for $2,250.

Mr. Senter has been employed Allison's plant at Indianapolis some time.

DEALER IS CONVICTED

OF SELLING AUTO TIRES

LOS ANGELES, June 26—Guy O. Bryan, chain store dealer convicted of selling tires in violation of rationing regulations, was fined $3,000 today and placed on probation provided he pays. If he defaults the fine, Federal Judge J. F. T. O'Connor said, he must serve a year in jail.

Federal officials said it was the first legal test of the tire rationing regulation. Bryan challenged constitutionality of the order, contending it tied up his assets. He acknowledged having sold $28,000 worth of tires.

Chapter Three

NO LAUGHING MATTER

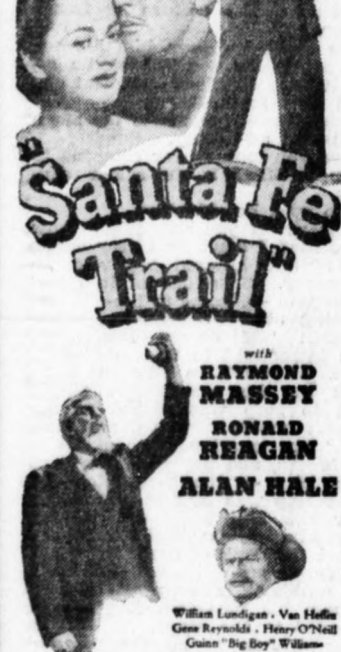

Hap, ecstatic at Maisie's acceptance, hired a rehearsal hall at once so they could prepare the act for a try-out.

In the ensuing weeks of rehearsal, Maisie again came to the conclusion that it was indeed Fate which ended her career as a renting agent and catapulted her into the theatre. Not that Hap's comedy improved any—not that for one moment she continued, then, under their act would hit big time. Hap, himself, made her happy of the change.

Mayhap he was just a small-town, stage-struck fool, with a minimum of talent—he was also the most regular guy she'd ever met. Besides, his belief in himself was honest; the poor darling had been sold down the river by his well-meaning friends in Dartsville who didn't know the difference between what goes big over a soda-fountain counter and what goes big over the footlights.

Maisie became increasingly conscious of one fact: she liked him. But you can't cure Hap of his gags. The day of their try-out, he had a last rehearsal. Maisie

An Egg a Day

"Eggs should be served frequently—at least three or four a week, preferably one a day, to every member of your family." So says our National Nutrition Chief, Mr. Paul V.
McNutt, in urging us to serve better food to all our families.

An egg a day! Let's see just how that would tally up for most of us.
Say there are 4 or 5 members in your family and you multiply them by the 7 days. That gives you from 28 to 35 eggs to serve your family every week.

Of course that is a lot of eggs—but it means a lot of mighty good nutrition, too! For eggs are one of our most important protective foods.
They are high in body-building proteins, and in vitamins and minerals vital to good health. Granted that we all need eggs, the only problem, then, is how to serve this many to your family every week.

Now, of course, it is possible to have eggs for breakfast every morning and so to include, just naturally, the egg quota suggested by the plan.
But there are so many other foods, of as much importance as these eggs, which must also be served frequently for breakfast if we are to balance our nutritional budget. We need whole grain cereals, too, and fruits, and certain kinds of meat.
To serve all of these together would make a three or four course meal—more food than most of us could handle every morning.

What's more, eggs just as eggs do not appeal to everyone, and so a steady diet of breakfast eggs would not be advisable. And besides, eggs are an important ingredient in so many other delightful kinds of cooking it would be unfair to deprive them of their full and proper sphere.

Eggs may be used in main-course dishes for luncheon and for supper, in souffles and sandwiches and salads, in custards, cakes, and cookies, and in so many other ways that the egg appears as indispensable to good cooking as it is to good nutrition.

So let's plot a plan for eggs. Let's say you serve eggs as eggs for breakfast once or twice a week, then use eggs, in sufficient number to complete your quota, in what we house-and family of Russellville.

Mrs. Carrie Clodfelter who spent a few days with her son Glen and family of Lafayette returned home on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McLinden wives call "made dishes" several times a week. Here are a few suggestions for a starter:

Hot Curried Eggs

Melt in saucepan—2 tablespoons butter,
Add and let brown—1 small onion, chopped.

Add, and cook until tender—1 medium apple cut in small pieces 1 cup tomato ketchup 1 cup water.

Add, and cook a few minutes longer—1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 teaspoon curry powder.

Serve over slices of hard cooked eggs.

Egg in Baked Tomatoes Cut 1/8 inch slice from tops and remove enough pulp to hold one uncooked egg from—

6 whole, large tomatoes.
Sprinkle insides of tomatoes with—Salt.

Into each tomato carefully slip—1 egg.

Place in a baking pan and bake in a moderate oven (350-375° F.) 12 to 20 minutes or until egg is set. Top with cheese sauce and serve.

Cheese Sauce

Combine in top of double boiler—

2 cups grated American cheese 1/2 cup evaporated milk 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce.

Cook, stirring occasionally until a smooth sauce is formed. Serve over baked tomatoes.

Apple Butter Custard Tarts

Beat well—2 eggs.

Add, mixing thoroughly—1 cup milk 4 tablespoons sugar 1 cup pure apple butter.

Line tart or muffin pans with—Pastry.

To prevent soaking spread pastry cups with—

Melted butter.

Pour filling into shells and bake in a hot oven (425° F.) 15 minutes, then turn thermostat to (350° F.) and continue baking 30 minutes or until filling is firm. Serve with whipped cream.

Note: If baked in individual pie pans bake 50 to 60 minutes after reducing heat.

Take A Holiday

Crime took a holiday in Greencastle last weekend. Not a single arrest was made by either the city or county officers and consequently the jail was minus "guests" over Saturday and Sunday.

These Jitterbugs

Have you heard the latest jitter-bug expression? Well, this is it—"What's tickin' chicken!" Could they be "cooking with electricity?"

It's Noticeable

With several hundred of the community's young men now in the nation's armed forces even the unob-serving can notice a difference on the streets and in the local stores.
Probably the hardest hit places, from a business standpoint, are the barber shops, for after all, every fellow needs a haircut once in awhile.

As We See It

From the war news this week, especially in Africa, it seems to us that England expects every American to do his duty.

Getting Modest?

Either the anglers are not catching any real big fish or they are getting mighty modest. We haven't heard a genuine "tall story" since the bass season opened nearly two weeks ago.

How About It?

Among the currently popular songs is one entitled "Give Me One Dozen Roses." We judge the modern Romeo wishes he could woo his Juliet for only this much expense the way prices are now.
